

A campus restaurant employee was found positive for COVID-19

Monday, Feb 14, 2022, 10:51AM

Dear Members of the University,

We were informed by the Subway restaurant operator that one of their employees was found to be positive for COVID-19. The infected employee last worked on campus on 11 Feb (last Friday). The area around the restaurant has been thoroughly cleaned and all their employees have been asked to take a COVID PCR test. The restaurant was closed yesterday, and will remain closed until the coming Friday (18 Feb). All their employees will be take a 2nd COVID PCR test, and will only resume work after they receive a negative result.

Subway does not have dine-in service, and their mode of operation should have a relatively low risk of transmission. However, we recommend members who have patronized Subway on 4 Feb, 5 Feb, 7 Feb, 9 Feb and 11 Feb (the dates on which the infected staff worked on campus) to take a rapid antigen test. Relevant members may pick up a rapid test kit from Security Control Center at the Entrance Piazza with your university ID, from 12:00 noon to 9:00 pm today, and 9:00 am to 9:00 pm this Tuesday and Wednesday (15 and 16 Feb).

With the rapid surge in COVID infection cases, the university will only send an all-member notification like this one when a positive case may pose elevated risk to the campus community. Other cases will be reported on the University COVID-19 webpage. You are advised to check the webpage regularly for the latest information. In this challenging time, do take care of yourself and your family, get vaccination, and follow all environmental and personal hygiene measures.

Take care and stay vigilant,
T.C. Pong, Vice-President for Administration and Business
Samuel Yu, Director of Health, Safety and Environment
